

Blog post: Botany is not dead, but this plant is

Contributed by rhund on Oct 28, 2016 - 02:32 PM

BSA member Jennifer Ackerfield blogs about the ongoing importance of herbaria:

"Protecting and caring for these invaluable and irreplaceable resources must be at the forefront for universities, botanic gardens, and museums. Because only time will tell what herbarium specimens will be used for in the future, as permanent records of the past."

<https://alienplantation.wordpress.com/2016/10/24/guest-post-botany-is-not-dead-but-this-plant-is/>

Article pictures

