

MEEC Midwest Ecology and Evolution Conference

Contributed by aneely on Oct 17, 2019 - 05:27 PM

The Midwest Ecology and Evolution Conference (MEEC) is an annual regional conference hosted by different Midwestern institutions each year and is organized and directed entirely by graduate students. This conference is graduate and undergraduate student-focused, providing a professional atmosphere for students of all levels to interact with and learn from their peers.